Roski Tells Plans for Third Group Day

'Duke' Set For Show March 7th

Duke Ellington and his orchestra, recently voted as the most popular orchestra in the world for the third consecutive year in a Downbeat Magazine poll, will appear on the Valley College campus March 7 for a concert-dance. The program will be held in the Men's Gym from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Tickets are now being sold by Executive Council members for the concert-dance. Price of the tickets is $1.50.

Joined in 1925

There are 16 members in Ellington's orchestra, two of them, Harry Carney and Johnny Hodges, have been with the orchestra since 1925.

Other members include Ray Nance, Jimmy Grissom, Cat Anderson, Britt Woodman, Paul Gonsalves, Russell Procope, Quenton Jackson, Jimmie Woody, James Hamilton, Clark Terry, Willie Cook, John Sanders and Sam Woodyard.

Ellington was contracted through the efforts of Roy Beaumont, English instructor, according to Kermit Dale, assistant dean of student activities.

Posters Up

Publicity for the concert-dance includes 180 posters put up on campus. The posters were made by Pat Nelson, commissioner of publicity, and a committee.

In 1943 Ellington became the first big band leader to play at Carnegie Hall. At this debut he introduced his first long work, "Black, Brown and Beige." Every year since then, Ellington has returned to Carnegie Hall and premiered a major work.

Song hits written by Ellington include "Don't Get Around Much Anymore," "Do Nothing 'Til You Hear It From Me," and "I'm Beginning To See the Light."

Ellington has played in every part of the United States, Canada 'and Europe. Before his engagement on campus. Ellington will complete a performance in Phoenix. From Valley he will travel to San Francisco.

AWS Plans Durand Music

Jean Durand, Haitian Calypso singer, will perform at the AWS welcoming night Wednesday from 7 to 11 p.m., according to Jana Lawrence, AWS president. The program will be held in the Women's Gym.

This is Durand's second appearance at Valley. When he performed at the Homecoming assembly last semester, he was accompanied by two guitarists who furnished background music for the singer.

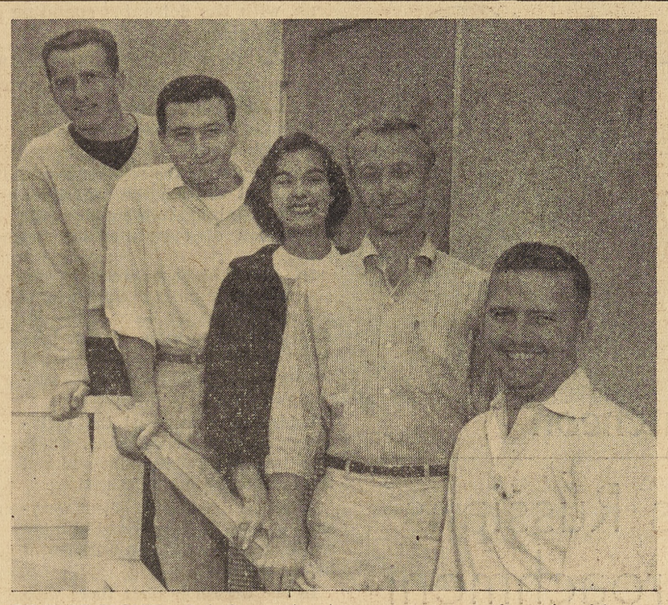
Refreshments will be served following the program at a "get-acquainted" session. Representatives from various clubs and societies will be present to answer questions about campus organizations.

The entertainment is open to all Valley women. No admission will be charged.

Sports Nights On AMS Slate

Sports nights, one with a Polka band, and competitive sports between the Freshman and Sophomore classes will highlight the Associated Men Students' activities for the spring semester. According to Ross. Figgins, president of AMS, coed sports nights will replace the traditional Men's Night given by AMS.

A revision of rivalry between the Sophomores and Freshmen is a project undertaken by AMS. Among the ideas discussed in AMS committee meetings concerning ways to stimulate class rivalry are sports on a competitive basis, and the awarding of a trophy to the winning class. Next semester's Monarch Day is being planned with this as the main theme.



FIVE OF EIGHT—Bob Sweet (top), commissioner of men's athletics; Luis Rosenfeld, commissioner of publications; Jo Volpe, corresponding secretary; Wayne Rust, chairman of elections; and Carl Bedwell (bottom), parliamentarian, were among the eight who recently received Executive Council appointments. Glenda Anderson, sophomore treasurer; Carol Bond, sophomore secretary; and Maureen Hooker, freshman treasurer; also were appointed at the Feb. 11 Council meeting.

Eight Receive Appointments To Executive Council Posts

Eight Valley College students received appointments to fill vacant Executive Council seats at a Feb. 11 meeting of the council. Included in the appointments were the selection of three students to class offices not contested during the recent Associated Student elections. A constitutional amendment passed last semester removed the responsibility of selecting class officers, other than presidents, from the Executive Council. The amendment placed the selection of class officers on Associated Student ballots.

Maureen Hooker received the Council appointment to the office of freshman treasurer. Glenda Anderson and Carol Bond were appointed sophomore treasurer and secretary.

Other Council appointees were Carl Bedwell, parliamentarian; Luis Rosenfeld, commissioner of publications; Wayne Rust, election committee chairman; Bob Sweet, commissioner of men's athletics; and Jo Volpe, corresponding secretary.

Still vacant because of the absence of a recommendation from the department is the commissioner of women's athletics office. No appointment will be made until the women's physical education department sends a recommendation to the Council, according to Kermit Dale, assistant dean of student activities.

Crown Depicts Year's Events

The Crown, Valley's yearbook, which is to make its appearance in late May or early June, is now being created by the Crown staff, according to Dave Smirnoff, editor in chief of the publication.

The book will illustrate the year's activities at Valley. Smirnoff's staff includes Lynda Elyea, social editor; Bob Sweet, sports editor; Tom Greene, copy editor; and Stephanie Miller, art editor.

Dr. Esther R. Davis, journalism and photography instructor, is adviser to the yearbook, which is a joint project of the students of the journalism, art and business departments.

This year, the photography department is contributing to the publication, undertaking all photography work to be used. This includes the graduates' portraits. In previous years, the staff would work in this area with outside, professional photographers.

Smirnoff said that this year the graduates' photographs are to be displayed in a new page arrangement.

"At present we are very pleased with the sales of the yearbook but we are hoping for increased sales this semester," said Smirnoff. The sales began last semester.

Aura-Lee Ageton, economics teacher, is adviser to those selling the book through the business department. The yearbook sales committee consists of Bruce Karpe and Ronald Hoffmann.

DJ Show Airs Here In March

A week-long radio broadcast featuring Valley College has been scheduled to begin March 3 in the Women's Gym, it was announced last week by the Executive Council in conjunction with radio station KBLA.

Ed Roski, associated student vice president, represented the council in negotiations to bring the Burbank station to the Valley campus. The broadcast will be a part of a remote series slated to emanate from gathering spots of young people throughout the valley.

Chosen as the second school to appear on the broadcast, Valley will be the only college visited by the disc jockey type show, according to Jeff Clark, program backer. Burbank High School will open the series with a broadcast Monday.

The show, titled Record Hop, will be aired March 3 thru 7 between 3 and 4:30 p.m. Live audiences of Valley students and faculty members will be given an opportunity to dance to recorded music and view live artists as they are interviewed over the air. In addition, hit records will be given to those in attendance.

Executive Council action called the broadcast "a wonderful chance to gain valuable publicity for Valley College, its activities and its organizations."

Library Gets Latin Classics In Goody Volume Donation

Although the calendar says February, it was Christmas again at Valley College's library this week. A notification was received that a second collection of gift books has been given to the library, Mrs. June A. Biermann, librarian, announced.

Dr. George Goody, special educational TV evaluator for the Los Angeles School System, is donating his Latin Classics collection, which he has been collecting over a period of 30 years, to the Valley Library. The volumes have outgrown his home library facilities, Mrs. Biermann said.

"We are now adding volumes to the library at the rate of over 3000 volumes per year. Our library now has 17,514 books already catalogued. This does not include the Phi chapter of Alpha Mu Gamma gift, nor the Dr. Goody collection," Mrs. Biermann said, "as these books have not yet been catalogued."

Mrs. Biermann was referring to the 600 volume gift of Alpha Mu Gamma, consisting of 200 volumes each of French, German and Spanish language books.

The rate of library growth places Valley in second place in the LA School System, according to Mrs. Biermann, who pointed out that the library did not have a single book on its shelves in 1949.

LET ME OUT—Recent parking lot problems have plagued the Valley College campus. Scenes such as this, where cars have been trapped and forced to be driven over the curb have become a common sight in the north parking area. Administrative action on the matter has been promised.

$10 Cost Faces Violators Of Parking Lot Regulations

Students violating the Valley College parking reguations stand the chance of having their cars towed away by the police department with an expense of $10, according to Kermit Dale, assistant dean of student activities.

Although the lane dividers will not be put up until Easter vacation in the area across from the Men's Gym, signs will be posted to show students where aisles are located, said Dale.

Parking regulations are as follows:

1. No parking at any time on Ethel avenue or Burbank boulevard adjacent to the college.
2. No parking at any time on any part of the campus other than parking lots. (The area adjacent to the administrative offices and in front of the old maintenance buildings is reserved for visitors.)
3. Park only against (perpendicular to) wooden parking strips on the parking lots which are so equipped.
4. No parking in any portion of entrance or exit lanes.
5. Speed limit on parking lots—reasonable and safe but never over 15 miles per hour.
6. No parking in reserved areas without special permits.

Julian Art Exhibit Featured in Library

Paul Julian, artist in the animated cartoon field, is exhibiting a group of his paintings in the Valley College Library through Friday, Feb. 28, according to Flavio Cabral, art instructor.

Julian's style of painting is semi-abstract. He studied at the Chouinard Art Institute and is now a regular exhibitor in West Coast galleries and museums.

Three Enter Speech Test

Three Valley College students will represent the campus at the annual junior college speech tournament sponsored by Long Beach State College Friday, Feb. 28.

The three students, all members of the Forensic Society, are Ben Andrews, Barry Burr and Valerie Saunders. They will participate in debate, oratory and impromptu events.

Students interested in joining the Forensic Society or attending the Long Beach tournament should contact Dr. Sydney Kessler, history and speech instructor, in Room 6. There are still openings in the 12 noon speech class that meets on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, according to Dr. Kessler.

IOC Sets Club Day Feb. 27th

The third semi-annual Club Day will be held next Thursday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Ed Roski, chairman of the Inter-Organization Council, announced. As in the past, campus organizations will be represented by booths located in the quad area, he said.

Club Day is the time when Valley's service, special interest and honor societies try to recruit new members. It was inaugurated last year to give students a chance to meet club members and become acquainted with each club's activities.

Prepare 'Burgers

Hamburgers, prepared by the Lettermen's Club, will cost 25 cents. Cokes and ice cream will be sold for 10 cents each, courtesy of the Coronets and Education Club.

Tickets for hamburgers will be on sale all week and may obtained from club representatives.

Roski said he expects a larger turnout than witnessed at either of the past Club Days because of the increased response to campus activities already shown by clubs this semester. "There is also more inducement to join one of the groups," he said, "since the clubs' programs are being tremendously expanded."

Feature Calypso

The International Club plans to feature a student calypso band, along with a booth decorated in an Oriental motif. A tent will be erected by the Natural Science Club.

Tickets to the forthcoming Duke Ellington Show will be raffled off among those deciding to join the Patricians. The Ski Lions plan a display of skiing equipment.

A Greek letter theme explaining the club's purpose will be used by Lambda Delta Sigma. Tri C members plan to decorate their booth with a schedule of programs planned for the semester.

Tau Alpha Epsilon-Les Savants members are making posters. The Monarchettes have decided to decorate their booth with girls wearing drill team uniforms.

Mrs. FDR Autographs Book for Library

INFORMAL CHAT—Director Walter T. Coultas and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt take time out for a chat during the former "first lady's" visit to the Valley campus. Mrs. Roosevelt spoke on "Is America Facing Up to World Leadership" at a Feb. 10 Athenaeum Committee program. Later, Mrs. Roosevelt autographed a copy of her book, "This Is My Story," to be placed in the college library. (Story Page 2)

'New Campus Construction To Start in May'—Coultas

Bids for construction of Valley's new campus will be open to contractors on or about March 10, according to Director Walter T. Coultas. Building plans will be submitted by the City School Board building committee. Members acting on the planning program are Georgiana Hardy, building division; Ernest R. C. Billerbeck, director of architecture and construction; John F. McGuinis, director of educational housing; and Ellis Jarvis, superintendent of schools.

"It is believed that ground-breaking will take place some time in May, when actual construction of the buildings will begin," said Coultas. "It will take approximately 16 months to complete the first phase and September 1959 is the hoped for move-in date," he added.

The buildings will be erected in three stages, costing about ten and one-half million dollars. The first phase consisting of seven one story units built of concrete, will cost some three million dollars.

All new buildings will face Fulton avenue. The structures will consist of the administration building, library, foreign language, social science, chemistry, physics, engineering classes, and a boiler room.

The second phase, costing approximately three and one-half million dollars, will begin around June 3 and will be paid for through a bond issue. The third phase will cost around four million dollars.

"To be pessimistic," said Director Coultas, "I would say the building will be completed by September 1962, but actually it should be September 1961."

"There will be construction going on all the time without a let-up from the day of groundbreaking until the final completion," he said.

Day Enrollment Dips to 2884

Twenty-nine communities are represented by the 2884 day students attending Valley College for the spring semester, said Robert J. Nassi, dean of admissions and guidance.

Seniors who are planning on taking part in the commencement exercises in June, '58, should file petitions of intention to graduate by Friday, Feb. 28, he said.

A tally of extended day students adds 4884 to make a total student body of 7684.

North Hollywood leads with 780 students enrolled. Van Nuys is a close second with 607 students. Further down the list is Agoura and La Canada both claiming one student each.

Other communities represented on the Valley campus are Burbank with 257 students, Beverly Hills 7, Granada Hills 46, Sun Valley 92, San Fernando 112, Los Angeles 129, Pacoima 145, Sherman Oaks 228, Tujunga 24, Sunland 32, Studio City 67, Sepulveda 37, Encino 68, Canoga Park 27 and Hollywood 40.

Tarzana has 12 students enrolled, Sylmar 13, Reseda 54, Woodland Hills 14, Panorama City 27, Northridge 36, Glendale 5, Chatsworth 2 and West Hollywood 2. Compton and Thousand Oaks each have one student.

Promotes Action

Under the heading of pleasant surprises comes the news that one of our own campus organizations had a voice in bringing about national observance of its stated interest.

At the request of the national honorary foreign language society, Alpha Mu Gamma, which includes the Valley College chapter, President Eisenhower proclaimed Feb. 16-22 Foreign Language Week, in conjunction with National Brotherhood Week, and Governor Knight has echoed the President's sentiment.

The linking of foreign languages with brotherhood seems especially appropriate in these days of distrust and misunderstanding among nations. But it may well be that before we can have brotherhood on a national scale we must strive for understanding on an individual scale, and there is no easier nor more pleasant way to signify our willingness to be friendly than by learning the language of the person we wish to have as a friend.

It would be almost impossible to name a culture in existence today that has not borrowed some elements from its neighbors. In this respect. Americans have been downright greedy. On all sides, from the square dance caller's "allemande left," with its French derivation, to the Japanese tabis we wear, we find ourselves indebted to other lands, other cultures, other languages.

Language is one of the keys to culture. With it we can insure that each United Nations delegate is hearing exactly the same speech at the same time as every other delegate, in a language each understands; we can decipher the Dead Sea Scrolls; we can show that we have a genuine interest in the country we are visiting. In each case, we can accomplish something which would be impossible if we spoke no language but our own.

Most Europeans are bi-lingual, many are multi-lingual, but perhaps it is part of our national arrogance to expect the foreigners to learn our language. Yet, if we would take a moment to learn a simple "Buon giorno" or "Guten Tag" we would have made a friend by making of ourselves a friend. The smiling response would reward us many times for our meager effort.

G.S.

Valley's International Escutcheon

Cultivated Disregard

For as long as Valley has occupied its current site, complaints have been loud and vigorous about the parking area to the north of the campus. During the rainy season, students and faculty alike voice protests about the huge puddles of water and deep ponds of mud. Complaints of dust and dirt are heard during the warmer days.

We are now more concerned, however, with a problem being created not by nature, but by those using the parking lot.

Last semester the Star, as a service to Valley, ran a series of Police Club bulletins. One of the bulletins stated, in part, "the dean of the school has the right to make those rules necessary to facilitate traffic movement and safety on or around the campus." Another bulletin told that "no parking is permitted in the driveways of the college parking areas."

Nevertheless, it has become necessary for many users of the parking lot either to push cars out of aisles, or drive over the edge of a curb when trying to leave the lot. Valley students have cultivated a disregard for the rules of the parking area and have parked in any convenient location.

Aisles in the southwest corner of the lot, although marked as no parking areas, have been blocked by cars. Faded and weather-worn signs, reading "no parking in aisles," are hung in inconspicuous places.

Kermit Dale, assistant dean of student activities, said early this week, "All illegally parked cars in the Valley lot will be towed away at a cost of $10 to the owner."

The burden of proof, however, still lies with those who use the lot. It should not be necessary, in a unified college, for threats to be made in order to maintain order in a parking lot.

Eleanor Roosevelt Claims Russians Plan To Conquer by Encroachment

By CHARLIE EICHHORN
Star Feature Editor
and GAYE SMITH
Star Social Editor

The Russians decided at the Geneva Conference that neither they nor we could ever resort to war due to the immensity of the weapons in existence, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told Athenaeum members and friends of the college in the Men's Gym, Feb. 10.

Speaking to a capacity crowd, the former First Lady explained that since a devastated world would be worthless to the Soviets, they have elected to encroach peacefully on one nation after another.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who made a 25-day journey inside Russia last September, said that prior to her trip she knew very little about our "adversary in thought."

The newspapers which sponsored her visit requested that she obtain an interview with Nikita Kruschev, communist party leader, but she also decided to see the ministers of health, education, social welfare and agriculture, believing that they could tell her more about the lives of the people.

She said that in Moscow the Russians are building apartment houses at the rate of one a day, yet because of overcrowding, many families are still forced to live in a single room.

Private or semi-private hospital rooms do not exist, she claimed. During her visit she said she saw six operations being performed at the same time in one operating room. But we must remember, she added, that Russian medical care is free and did not exist before the Revolution.

Mrs. Roosevelt described a popular argument used by the Soviets to influence underprivileged countries to unite with Russia. They claim that they truly understand the problems facing these countries since they themselves were in a similar situation 40 years ago.

"They never mention that what is going on has been done under compulsion," she said. "Under compulsion you can accomplish your aims far more quickly than you can through education and persuasion, which is what you must do in a free world."

It is the duty of the United States to give the underprivileged countries hope that gradually we can help to lead them to a better way of life. To accomplish this we must gain an understanding of the world in which we are the leaders, she continued.

"This is a challenge. We have to accept the fact that we are leaders, and facing up to leadership means understanding the world," she said.

The United Nations is just as good as the member nations and no better, and the member nations wait for leadership, she said. "It begins at home by the example you set and it will spread as you understand the peoples of the world."

"The Russians want disciplined people who are amenable and they are getting what they want. I do not like their methods.... but I have to acknowledge that under compulsion certain good results have come about," she added.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that for years Americans have allowed themselves to be frightened by the word "Communism" without actually finding out just what it is. Now, because of Sputnik, "We were put in a tizzy dizzy" and we are becoming concerned with what exists in the Soviet Union.

Throughout her speech, Mrs. Roosevelt emphasized the importance of viewing the Russians in the proper light. "They are very highly intelligent people, but they think differently and believe differently," she said. "Russian life, from the American point of view, would be highly disagreeable, but it cannot be judged that way."

It has only been about 40 years since the Russian Revolution when "most of the people were virtually peasants," she explained. At that time barely 10 per cent of the people were literate.

Today she estimates it would be difficult to find 10 per cent who are illiterate. "When you have a revolution, you date every good thing that happens to you from that revolution," she said.

The Russians are not wasting any human material, she remarked. Youngsters are given seven years of education after which they take an ability test to be permitted to continue to the 10th year. In addition to their regular studies, students are tested on theories of Marxism to insure that they are versed in these beliefs and can express them suitably. This enables the Soviets to choose the best qualified students to carry their ideals to other nations.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that we, as leaders of an opposite faith, must also appeal to the uncommitted areas of the world. We must prove by example that we have recognized aims and are working toward them.

Foreign Language Events

Editor:

The week of February 16-22 has been proclaimed "National Foreign Language Week" by President Eisenhower. Consequently, Phi Chapter of Alpha Mu Gamma, an honorary foreign language society, is sponsoring three events during this week.

In our library can be found a Foreign Language Week exhibit which was made possible by Mrs. June Biermann, head librarian, and her most cooperative staff. The high point of the exhibit is a large world map illustrating the mother countries of the three languages taught here at Valley and, by use of colored yarns and tacks, all countries that speak the mother tongue.

Thursday at 11 a.m. in the Student Lounge, we are proud to have four guests who will tell us how foreign language has influenced their lives. The speakers include Mrs. Jacqueline Davis, a French war bride; and Mrs. Benny Beit-Ishoo, from Persia, who attends Valley.

We extend an invitation to all interested students and faculty members to attend these events.

Aisle Parkers Beware!

Editor:

I'm getting so aggravated with the parking situation on campus that I wish there was a bus that went by the campus. It seems that there are some selfish persons who insist on blocking the aisles so no one can get out. I wish people would be more considerate, especially to themselves, as someday they may return to their cars and find they are not in the same condition as when they left.

AGGRAVATED STUDENT

Mrs. FDR Boosts Language Idea

Learning languages is extremely valuable to a nation hoping for world leadership, according to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

In a speech to Athenaeum members, Feb. 10, she stressed the fact that the Russians are using foreign languages to sell their ideas to the uncommitted nations of the world.

"This is a very clever and carefully planned form of leadership," she said.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she visited a theater during her recent trip to Russia and found herself sitting with delegates from uncommitted countries.

Nearby sat a group of 20 Sudanese, accompanied by four Russians of about college age "who talked their language as glibly as they spoke Russian," she said.

A few seats away sat a group of Bulgarians where a similar situation was in effect, she continued.

The former First Lady said that the Russians use such opportunities to convince these delegates of the advantages of the Russian way of life.

The Kremlin sends some of its skilled young people to foreign countries. A young man who goes abroad in this manner has previously learned the language of the country to which he is being sent, said Mrs. Roosevelt.

"When he goes, he takes the gesture of friendship, because any nation is pleased and rather flattered if you learn its language before you appear," she said.

Youth A Problem?

Are adults concentrating on juvenile delinquency more than is necessary? Are adults making a mountain out of a molehill? These are the questions that entered my mind after attending the Governor's Conference on Youth Participation in Community Affairs Feb. 11 and 12.

Sacramento was the site of the conference, with 4000 delegates attending from throughout California. Cliff Liddy, president of the Knights, men's service organization, was also a representative from the Valley College campus.

"This is a work conference," said Governor Goodwin Knight in his opening address to the delegation. This statement proved itself true, with the delegates spending eight hours in workshops during the two days.

The nine workshops which the delegates attended included family, school, church, jobs for youth, motor age, delinquency prevention, commuunity affairs, accomplishments of non-delinquent youth and youth fitness.

The purpose of the conference was carried out through the workshops. The purpose being to bring about the cooperation of today's adults and youth.

In the workshops everyone was given the opportunity to express himself on the matter being discussed. After talking to some of the delegates, there seemed to be a general feeling that the adults and youth participated equally in discussions.

Liddy and I attended the Delinquency Prevention workshop, which was the biggest of the nine and had to be broken down into 23 sections.

After the first session of our workshop we were both impressed with the multitude of occupations represented by the delegates.

In our workshop alone there were school principals, instructors, PTA members, county-sponsored delegates, probation officers, social workers, parents, students and many others.

It was brought out during discussions that only three percent of the youth of today are delinquent and 97 per cent are on the right road.

With these figures the adults praised the youth, but yet during discussions I felt that the adults weren't so much worried about actual juvenile delinquency—that is, the committing of crimes by youth—as they were by teen-age fads.

Things such as the way students dressed or combed their hair seemed to rile the parents when discussions got off the track, although all seemed genuinely concerned with helping teen-agers.

A feeling prevalent in the discussion was to push adults to the background and let teen-agers run themselves.

One disturbing factor about the workshops was that conclusions weren't supposed to be reached. This made logical discussion difficult, and many delegates tended to be on the emotional side.

It was a wonderful experience to attend the conference and see that a true interest is being taken in the youth of today.

"I think that the conference was a success from the standpoint of letting students as well as adults get an insight to the problems of juvenile delinquency," said Liddy.

The Diatribe

by Charlie Eichhorn

Names for the Asking

Almost once a month somebody rings my doorbell and offers me a petition to sign. Some of them are good, some not so good. Some of them I sign, some I don't. Some are presented by well-meaning, public-spirited citizens, others by professional solicitors.

On each occasion I make a point of reading the petition before I decide whether or not to sign it. Of, course, you say. That's standard procedure. I used to think so too. But judging from the reactions it causes I gather I'm the exception rather than the rule.

Some petitioners just raise an eyebrow. Others act as though I've challenged their integrity since, after all, they did explain it before they handed it to me. Fortunately, a few seem delighted that I should actually take a few seconds to investigate (especially if I choose to sign it afterwards).

These are the individuals who appear to believe in whatever it is they are campaigning for, and the ones who welcome inquiries in order to present their viewpoints.

I was telling a friend of mine about this recently but he wasn't surprised. In fact, he came up with a petition story that even surprised me, veteran petition-peruser that I am.

It seems there was a booth set up in his local market for the purpose of getting signatures on a petition for a stop sign at an intersection close to a nearby school.

He claims he had to stand in line in order to get up to the booth to sign it. When his turn came up he was handed a sheet of signatures without the petition itself.

He requested to see the written petition and the petitioner obliged . . . after spending some time searching through several piles of papers to uncover it.

Apparently it had been quite a while since a single one of this group of signers, all willing to stand in line for their children's protection, had taken the trouble to find out what they were endorsing.

In this instance, the petition turned out to be exactly as it had been represented and the stoplight was installed soon afterward. But suppose the petition hadn't been what is was purported to be?

Quite a number of persons with excellent intentions could have given their support to something they may bitterly oppose.

One of the metropolitan newspapers recently warned its readers to beware of a petition being circulated that was fraudently represented as the very opposite of its true identity. In this case, its proponents had not been interested in civic betterment, but in a selfish cause.

Perhaps it's good to be a bit skeptical. After all, if someone will take the time to call on you simply to get your signature, you might find out why.

Narcotics Play Due; Rehearse One-Acts

Narcotic addiction and its terrifying effects on a young married couple will be portrayed as the Crown Players present their first major production of the semester, "A Hatful of Rain," March 4 in the Little Theater. Starring in the three-act drama will be Jerry Ervin as Johnny, Ed Guardino as Polo, Barbara Ainslee as Celia and Joe Locastro as Mr. Pope. Others in the cast include Bob McKendrick, Tom Solari, Jon Cary, Sybil Colin and Pat O'Connor. Tom Rogers is production manager.

"We are sparing no expense to bring this production to Valley College, and to my knowledge no other school has produced this play heretofore. It portends to be one of the best shows ever done at Valley," said Bob E. Davis, theater arts director.

Seen on Broadway

Written by Michael V. Gazzo, the play originally starred Ben Gazzara and Shelley Winters on the New York stage in 1955.

The show runs March 4 through March 8 and resumes March 11 through March 15. Admission will be one dollar and reservations may be made at the Crown Theater box office located at the Little Theater.

"Cyrano de Bergerac," the classic drama, is scheduled to be staged later this semester.

Opening the spring season with "If Men Play Cards as Women Do," the theater arts department starts its one-act play series. The play, with a cast of four males, was written by George S. Kaufman.

Present Satire

A satire on women's card games, directed by Gayner McLaren, the comedy will be presented March 20 at 11 a.m., 12 noon and 1 p.m. in the Little Theater.

Other student-directed productions will include "The Peacemakers," directed by Sonny Shurtz, March 27; "Submerged," directed by Tom Rogers, April 1; "The Intruder," directed by Joe Locastro, March 8; "Three Pills in a Bottle," directed by Ellen Witrack, and "Confessional," directed by Tom Flink, June 12.

These one-act plays are enacted by students and are directed by the theater arts advance direction classes. There is no charge for admission to these performances.

Women's Club Gives Student $100 Grant

There was a smiling Valley College student on both the giving and receiving sides of a scholarship award this week when Mrs. Dorothy Sherrard received $100 from Mrs. Lela Coomer on behalf of the Pacoima Business and Professional Women's Club.

"This was a lifesaver," said Mrs. Sherrard, who is preparing to be a laboratory technician.

She will be graduated from Valley in June and then plans to enter St. Joseph's Hospital, Burbank, as a trainee.

With 58 units presently completed, Mrs. Sherrard explained that she has enrolled for 11 additional units this semester so that she may enter St. Joseph's Hospital with "as many credits as possible."

Mrs. Sherrard has a 16-year-old daughter, who attends San Fernando High School, and a 16-month-old son.

Mrs. Coomer, who is a psychology major at Valley, said that most scholarships are designed to help a young person but this one is "to help a mature woman who has gone back to college to better herself in the business and professional world."

In addition to caring for her four children and maintaining an active community life, Mrs. Coomer is president of the Patricians for a second semester, vice president of Delta Kappa Phi and a member of the Psychology Club.

Steno Student Gains Honors

The Los Angeles chapter of Executive Secretaries, Inc., has awarded $150 to Judith Webster, Valley College secretarial student.

This scholarship is given to a student who is working for an Associate in Arts degree in stenography, according to Mrs. Velma Olson, counselor.

Miss Webster, who is in her freshman year, is a member of the Monarchettes, Valley drill team.

She was selected as winner of this scholarship on the basis of high school scholastic rating, campus activities and sincerity of purpose, said Mrs. Olson.

Executive Secretaries, Inc., takes a personal interest in its scholarship girls, Mrs. Olson continued. The organization provides the girls with summer vacation work and places them with member firms upon graduation.

Jones Awarded Physics 1 Prize

Winner of the Physics 1 Achievement Award for beginning students in engineering-physics is Thomas Lee Jones. He received a copy of the "Handbook of Chemistry and Physics" from the Chemical Rubber Company of Cleveland, Ohio.

Jones, a sophomore, is majoring in Aeronautical Engineering. He is interested in working in aircraft design. After being graduated from Valley, he plans to attend SC or an out-of-state school.

This is the first time the award has been given at Valley, according to Edward H. Clark, physics instructor. The Chemical Rubber Company donates the prize to any school who wants to use it as an award, he said. The book will be engraved with Jones' name and "Valley College, 1958."

Valley Choir To Participate In National Music Event

Participation in the biggest single musical event in the nation is programmed for Valley College's music department this year, according to Richard A. Knox, music department chairman and chorale director. Music instructors and school bands from Anchorage, Alaska to Columbus, Ga., will march into Los Angeles for the biennial convention of the Music Educators National Conference March 21-25, he said.

LA city schools will host 8000 music instructors, bands, choirs, orchestras and vocal groups from the entire nation. This marks the second time that the MENC has met on the West Coast; the previous time was in 1940.

The festival week will feature concerts, operas and other musical programs. "It is a week of replenishment of ideas," Knox said. All instructors in music will participate in the discussions, he added.

The Western Division Junior College Choir, of which Valley is a part, is scheduled to present a program the evening of March 24 at the Philharmonic Auditorium. The program is billed as one of the features of the conference. Valley's choir has about 50 members. The chorale has an additional 35 to 40 members, Knox said.

Three simultaneous workshops are scheduled for March 21-22. These are planned especially for classroom teachers in the City of LA, LA County and in other counties in Southern California. The programs are presented for personnel from schools of all levels.

An unusual exposition of music literature, instruments, audio-visual and other materials of interest and value to the music education field will be displayed at convention headquarters, according to Knox.

Music students who have proved outstanding ability were selected to be section leaders in the Valley College choir, according to Knox.

The section leaders are Glenda Anderson, first soprano; Patti Knox, second soprano; Sharlyn Arnold, first alto; Dorothy Slansky, second alto; Frank Kaltenbach, first tenor; William Daley Thomas, second tenor; Stuart Mednick, baritone, and Robert Lomax, bass.

Books, Pictures Are Featured In Foreign Language Exhibit

"When men can talk together they can work together," said Sosthenes Behn, chairman of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. This is the theme of the Foreign Language Week exhibit in the Valley College library. Sponsored by Alpha Mu Gamma, national honorary foreign language society, the exhibit will continue through tomorrow. National Foreign Language Week ends Saturday.

Among the exhibits is a group of pictures explaining the many opportunities in employment open to those who have a knowledge of languages. The pictures support the statement made by the Modern Language Association that "The world beckons to those who know foreign languages."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has said, "It is not possible to understand what is in the minds of other people without understanding their language. Without understanding their language it is impossible to be sure that they understand what is in our minds."

"Each language, including our own, is a delicate precision tool of immense potential value," Dulles added.

Chest X-Ray Unit Ends Campus Stay

Some 1260 Valley College students and faculty members received free chest X-Rays this week when the TB Mobile Chest unit was stationed on campus.

Results of the X-rays will be mailed to those photographed in the near future. Board of Education policy compels all personnel to be X-rayed at least once every two years.

IOC Elects Quartet as New Officers

Four officers were elected by the Inter-Organization Council Tuesday.

Willard Hatch was voted in as vice president. Hatch, president of the Education Club, received 96 votes as a write-in candidate for the vice presidency in the last Student Body election. He was also active on the planning committee for last year's Fiesta.

Charlotte Glasser was chosen as secretary. A graduate of North Hollywood High School, Miss Glasser is vice president of the Natural Science Club, secretary of the International Club and historian of the Ski Lions. She is majoring in science.

A Spanish Club representative, Ron Gordon was selected as treasurer. He was graduated from North Hollywood High School and is majoring in history. Gordon is currently vice president of publicity for the Ski Lions and plans to teach history in a high school or junior college after he completes his education.

Mike Collins was selected as parliamentarian. Collins attended Notre Dame High School and has been a member of Valley's swimming team. He is a business administration major.

PE Teaching Will Be Aired

Opportunities in physical education will be discussed at the next program in the current Occupational Exploration series, March 8. Mrs. Anita Fischer of Los Angeles Valley State College will speak, according to Miss Helen Mindlin, women's physical education head.

The women's physical education department is presenting the March 8 talk. The program continues this term's eseries of meetings sponsored by the various departments at Valley.

"Opportunities in Life Insurance" was Jack O'Neill's topic at last Thursday's meeting. O'Neill is a Charter Life Underwriter for Provident Mutual Insurance Company. The Valley Associated Business Students Club and the business department sponsored the meeting. The business groups will present four more speakers this term.

The departments at Valley are responsible for sponsoring talks in their related fields, according to Mrs. Mary Bruick, coordinator of the series. Mrs. Bruick is a member of the counseling staff at Valley.

Mrs. Bruick said the program gives students accurate and up-to-date information on various career fields. It also makes for a better understanding of the qualifications and performance required in a student's chosen field, she said.

Club Activities

Writers To Screen 'Beholder' Tomorrow

Writer's Club will hold its first meeting of the Spring semester tomorrow evening at 7:30 at 3906 Mary Ellen Ave., Sherman Oaks, according to Beverly Hatch, secretary.

The movie, "Eye of the Beholder," will be shown and announcements concerning this semester's activities will be made. All students interested in writing, and their guests, are invited to attend the meeting.

Saturday, March 8, the Writers' Club will have a Work-in-Progress Workshop. This club is responsible for the publication called the Manuscript, which will be on sale the end of this month and which will be published at Easter.

Romain Gary, author of "Roots of Heaven," will be the guest at the Writers' Club luncheon in May. Past guests of the club included the poets Karl Shapiro and Robert Lowell.

Officers pro tem of the Writers' Club are Carole Rosen, president; Ray Fergus, vice president; Beverly Hatch, secretary; Darlene Attebery, treasurer and Anna Perrelli, historian.

Societies Continue 'A to Z' Tutoring

Tutoring service that ranges from A to Z (anatomy to zoology) is again being offered this semester by the Tau Alpha Epsilon-Les Savants honor societies. Students needing help may receive the assistance of members of the societies who have taken the subjects and were in the upper grade level in their class.

A fee of 50 cents per hour will be accepted by the society to apply to a scholarship fund which is held by the student bookstore until it is dispensed. When a fund of $75 has been accumulated the scholarship is made available to a student showing financial need.

Membership in TAE-Les Savants is based on a grade average minimum of 3.2 on all work taken at Valley. Previous to this semester it was also necessary to take a minimum of 12 units in one semester, but this requirement has been changed to permit students enrolled in extended day school to qualify, according to Mrs. Lorraine Eckardt, who is one of the group's advisers. Membership is now available on a cumulative basis of grade points. Applications are being accepted until Feb. 28, Mrs. Eckardt said.

Faculty To Form Psych Club Panel

A panel discussion on "Marriage —Past, Present and Future" will be sponsored by the Psychology Club Feb. 28 at 8 p.m. in the Student Lounge, according to June Burlew, president.

Chairman of the discussion will be Dr. John Reiter. Panel members will be Dr. Arnold C. Fletcher, history instructor; Noel Korn, anthropology; Edward J. Kunzer, sociology instructor; and Dr. Stanley L. Singer, psychology instructor.

Newman Club Plans To Honor Patron

Newman Club at Valley College has planned various activities to honor its patron, Cardinal Newman, according to Bob Behncke, club president. This week is National Cardinal Newman Week.

A leadership school at LACC will climax the week's events. All interested Valley students are invited to attend. For further information contact Thomas McGuire, club sponsor, or Behncke.

Next meeting of the Newman Club will be Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria at Notre Dame High School, Woodman avenue and Riverside drive.

Language Group Shows Film Tonight

Alpha Mu Gamma, foreign language society, will show the film "The Voyage of the New Mayflower" in Room 44 at 7:30 this evening.

This film is being shown "to emphasize the European origins of many of our institutions," according to John G. Tatum, faculty adviser.

International Club To Meet Tomorrow

Spring semester officers of the International Club are Cecil Heron, president; Eiji Yagi, vice president; Charlotte Glasser, secretary; Jorge Lopez, treasurer; Gundi Bosch, historian; Naomi Love, commissioner of social affairs, and Ray Fergus, commissioner of publicity.

Next meeting of the club is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at three in Room 40. All interested students are invited to attend, according to Ray Fergus.

The International Club is open to both foreign and American students interested in international relations. Past events of the club include talks by representatives of the Consulates of Italy, Japan and Mexico and the presentation of the Devi Dja Dancers, a Balinese-religious group.

In honor of United Nations Day, the International Club sponsored a talk by Mrs. Judy Funk, wife of Gen. Wilfred Funk who is the local chief of the Air Force missile project.

Tune-in Time

By Jerry Tune

Champ of Champs

Since our basketball team has a very good chance of tying or winning the Metropolitan Conference this year, I was intrigued by the possibility of comparing this year's squad with that of 1954-55, the only team in Valley's history to win the conference title.

Naturally for a rundown on the players and team we would turn to the coach of that year, Ben McFarland, now our athletic director, and Ralph Caldwell, this year's mentor.

On the whole both coaches agree in comparisons of the clubs. McFarland describes his team by saying "I haven't seen a team like that in junior college." The players' success in four-year schools speaks for itself as you will recognize Jim Halsten (UCLA), Phil Dye and Jim Yocum (SC), and John Bowen (Arizona St.). Also Bill Wallace is at California, Carl Blanton is at LA State and Don Bucher is at Adams State in Colorado.

McFarland worked Halsten and Wallace at guards, Bowen and Dye at forwards and Yocum at center. Sometimes he would throw Dye in the post, put Whitey May at guard and switch Wallace to forward.

Comparing this lineup to this year's McFarland sees Dye and Bowen on a par with Malkin and Powers with the edge going to his boys. "They were great on the boards and I have never seen a better tipping team on the offensive boards," said McFarland of his front line. Bowen had a good eye and hit for 28 against LACC.

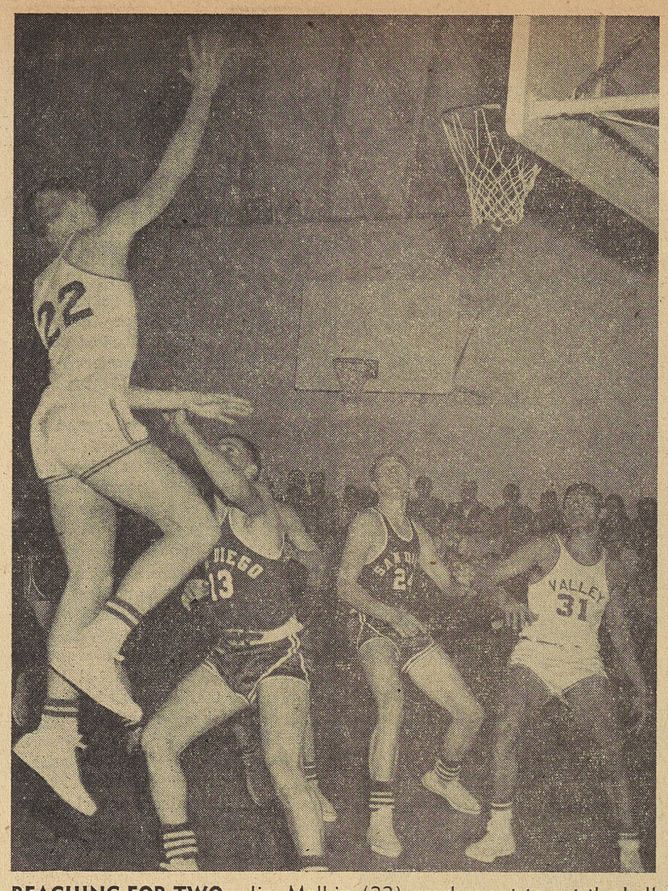
Centerwise McFarland says Whitey Williams of this year's team deserves the nod over Yocum on the basis of his "better attitude toward the game" and was on a par with Yocum in the rebounding department. Also he feels "Whitey is the kind of man you want on the court because of his team play and desire." Caldwell also gives a slight edge to Williams in rebounding.

McFarland hesitates in picking the guards because the difference between the Wold-Cadiente combo and the Halsten-Wallace twosome is a rough choice. He did say however that Wold certainly has the best eye of the foursome but that Halsten was no slouch either, having held the Valley scoring record until Wold broke it this year.

In summary of the difference in team style, he says "We didn't place the emphasis on the fast break as they do now." McFarland observes that his team had a slightly better defense and that his team also holds the Valley record for the most points scored in one game by racking up 108 against Harbor.

Caldwell says "They certainly had a better balanced scoring attack, more height and a good defensive team," but adds his team "has the speed edge" and coordinates McFarland in saying this year's team has more spirit.

According to the coaches, both had rough competition in conference play. Records so far indicate that Valley can tie the 1954-55 conference win-loss tally by winning their last two games. Here's hoping to see them do just that in the Long Beach biggie this Tuesday. See you there.



REACHING FOR TWO—Jim Malkin (22) reaches out to put the ball into the bucket, but San Diego's Brad Griffith stands right in the way. Dave Cadiente (13) gets in rebounding position to await the shot. Valley ran away from the Knights 84-52. Malkin wound up high with 27 points.

Beat Huskies, Vikings ---Then Metro Crown

Climaxing a season of victories, Valley needs two more wins to close out the campaign in a tie for the conference title. East LA's Huskies pose the first barrier to the crown as they host Valley tomorrow night. A win here would force Valley into the conference crucial with Long Beach Tuesday night.

The Huskies have been playing without the services of three top players and have been considerably weakened. In their last outings they lost to Bakersfield by a 41-66 count and beat Harbor by a 60-56 score.

Elisio Nino, the team's number one scorer, sprained an ankle and is on the doubtful list for tomorrow as is Gil Moe, victim of another ankle mishap, this one broken. Also Art Jenkins, their number two scorer, is unable to play.

High Lion Scorers

The last meeting of these two teams showed the Monarchs as victor by a 93-65 score which featured four Lions in double scoring figures. Bill Wold and Jim Malkin led the scoring with 27 and 20, respectively. The Huskies' attack was led by Jenkins with 16, Elisio Nino with 11 and Dick Murphy with 13.

The Vikings from Long Beach are one game up on Valley and face Harbor and Bakersfield over the weekend. If the Hawks or 'Gades are able to pull one out then Valley can tie even if they lose to the Vikes.

Scoring Duel Set

Long Beach is led by their towering center, Dick Markowitz who is in a scoring dogfight with Wold for the conference leadership. Last time around Markowitz outpointed Wold by a 26 to 18 count. In that game on the Vikes' court Valley was downed 85 to 60.

Bob Berry, Bill Jordan, and Dave Jones back up Markowitz with a very balanced scoring barrage. Berry, 5'10", is the playmaker of the squad and he has taken time to post the third best scoring total of the conference. Jordan and Jones are among the top twenty scorers in the conference.

Second Title Quest

If Valley wins the conference title it will be the second time they have done so in nine years. The 1954-55 squad accomplished this feat with a 12 win 2 loss record.

Our 10-2 record so far this year assures us the second best record in the school's history. Also the best record for a total season is 29-4 in 1954-55. This year's team has assured a second place in this record also as they have a 21 win 8 loss tally so far with two games to go.

Trackless Cindermen Set To Face Frosh in First Meet

Many school records are in contention of being broken tomorrow when the Valley Monarchcs clash with the Occidental Frosh on the Tigers' home oval.

This will be Valley's first test on a cinder field being that Coach Maijala's men have yet to run on a college track this season. With the building construtcion under way, the Monarchs were left without a track.

General workouts and time trials have been held in the north end of the parking lot bordering the men's athletic field and at North Hollywood High.

The spike crew hasn't won a cinder meet from the Oxy Frosh since 1952 when the Monarchs downed the Freshmen 64-59. Last year the Valley men were defeated by a 77¾-46¼ tally.

Coach Maijala has three lettermen returning to help strengthen his squad. Jim Erbes and Ron Bach scored points in the Metropolitan Conference finals last year in the 440 and 880, respectively.

Don George returns this season after a layoff last season because of a bad leg. George currently holds the school record in the low hurdles with a 23.8 effort in 1956.

Gymnasts Off To San Diego

Preparing to invade San Diego State College this Saturday, Valley College's gymnastic team began their season at the third annual UCLA collegiate invitational gymnastics meet Saturday.

Completely dominating their own meeet, the UCLA Gymnastic team won five out of eight first places at Westwood Friday.

Only Valley winner in the meet was Keith Gouger in tumbling. Other placers were Dale Lansberry, a second in the rope climb, and Mel Sant second in parallel bars, behind UC LA's Arwyn Sampson. All three players were awarded medals.

Others who competed in the meet were Fresno State, San Jose State, Santa Monica City College, Pasadena, UCLA Frosh, as well as Valley and UCLA.

Samo Falls as Fifth in Row

Santa Monica's Corsairs fell to Valley College's basketball team as the fifth straight victim in the second round of conference play by a count of 78-65. Billy Wold led the scorers with 23, followed by Dave Cadiente with 15, Bruce Powers with 14 and Jim Malkin with 8.

Jim Malkin's 27 points and a last second, 42 foot set shot by Ted Fish climaxed a runaway ballgame as the bordertowners of San Diego took an 84-52 trouncing from the Monarchs on the winners' court.

Scare by Warriors

Wold, Valley's shooting guard connected for 23 markers, hitting nine out of 15 shots from the floor for an unbelievable 60 per cent.

The Monarchs were almost jolted out of their shoes by the last place El Camino Warriors but a last minute rally by Dave Cadiente and Wold pushed the locals to a 67-61 win on the losers' court last Tuesday evening.

Valley found its first victory over the Harbor Seahawks in three years as Coach Ralph Caldwell's quintet rolled to a 59-53 victory. Wold led the Valleyites with 28 points for high game honors.

Gades Beaten Again

The Monarchs downed Bakersfield for the second time this season scoring another late rally in a thrilling 65-57 contest in the large Renegade gymnasium. Valley overcame a halftime score of 28-28.

Lion Nine Faces Lancers Again

Pasadena hosts Valley's baseball team in a rematch tomorow after clubbing the Monarchs 12-1 in the first game played here last Friday. Pasadena, being the first test for this year's squad showed a powerful hitting team that shellacked Lion pitchers for 17 hits. Ben Massi, Dan McCrystal and Bill Higgins performed on the mound for the Monarchs.

The Lancers scored one in the first and then added seven more in the third for their advantage which was never in danger. Valley's lone marker came in the sixth inning.

Hit Hard Again

Leading hitters for Valley were Vern Cleva (3 for 5) and Chuck Rezo (2 for 4). All Valley's hits were singles and Rezo crossed the plate with the only run.

Valley pitchers were again hit for 18 hits as they lost to Compton on the winners' field by a 10-4 score. The game was tied three all for the first four innings when Bill Higgins was on the mound.

Lose to Cubs

LACC knocked the Monarchs off last Monday on the winners' diamond by a score of 3-1. The Cubs scored five big runs in the bottom of the eighth but that inning was discarded when Valley failed to get its time at bat.

Mike Benadom doubled, Chuck Rezo singled and Dave Ochoa singled to complete the hitting. McCrystal, Massi and Benadom all pitched for the Monarchs and gave up five hits.

The Monarchs hit better in this game, accumulating six singles but lost the game in the latter innings when Compton scored three in the eighth.

Letterman Call Out From Sutherland

Letterman club sponsor Bus Sutherland is underway in the task of building up the club and wishes that all Valley lettermen on campus would contact him so that he can get their names.

Officers were elected at the first meeting of the year last night at 7 p.m. in the student lounge. They also talked about continuing their hamburger booth in Valley's annual Club Day Thursday.

EYEING BUCKET—A member of the Flying Wheels, nationally traveled wheelchair basketball team, eyes the bucket, appearing to be ready for a shot. In reality though, he throws a perfect pass to his teammate number 14. The action took place in the preliminary game last Friday night at Valley, which the Flying Wheels won over the Western Wheels.

Four Sports In Intramurals

Coach Bus Sutherland, director for this semester's spring intramural program, announced that applications for competition in softball, volleyball, handball and badminton are now available in the Men's Gym.

Scheduled to start play first is softball competition. Team rosters will will be accepted for this sport starting Tuesday. Deadline for applications is Thursday, March 6, with play scheduled to start March 13. No playing schedule has ben set up as yet, said Coach Sutherland.

Captains To Meet

Softball team captains will have a meeting March 6 at 2 p.m. with Coach Sutherland to set up the time for competition in softball said the intramural director.

Competition in handball in either the single or double events is available this semester, announced Sutherland. Entries for this event may also be obtained in the Men's Gym.

All entries in this event will meet with Coach Sutherland in the Men's Gym Thursday, March 6, at 2:30 p.m. to arrange for the scheduling of games between opponents.

15 Man Softball Roster

Each softball team will play nine men, with not more than 15 men to a team roster. No names will be added to the roster after competition of the first round of play.

Handball games will be played under official handball rules with the best two out of three games determining the match. Elimination tournament will be played with consolas as well as championship rounds.

Losses Hit Golf, Tennis Teams

Valley's tennis team will travel tomorrow to face LACC at the Griffith Park Courts. After the 7½ to 1½ defeat handed them by Glendale last Tuesday the team will be going all out to even the season's record. On Tuesday the team journeys to Glendale for a return match.

The smashing drives of Al Driscole in the singles and doubles salvaged Valley's only match.

LACC handed Valley's golf team their third loss in a row this year, by a score of 24-12 on the losers' green last Tuesday. This is coupled with a 29-7 loss to Occidental and a 25-11 loss to Pierce last Friday. The Oxy match was held last Monday.
